Why Faculty-Led Study Abroad Programs?

Dear AUS Faculty,

I would like to invite you to consider taking a group of students along for a Faculty-led Study Tour over one of the upcoming breaks during the upcoming academic year, or possibly in the summer

International faculty-led study tours can really enrich the academic experience, immerse students in another culture, internationalize your curriculum and offer students an opportunity to test their interest in study abroad experiences. Since January 2010, AUS faculty have led a total of 81 study tours involving 1,070 students to 23 countries, including Austria, Cambodia, Canada, China, France, Germany, Hong Kong, India, Indonesia, Italy, Japan, Jordan, Malaysia, Netherlands, Portugal, Qatar, Singapore, South Africa, South Korea, Spain, UK, USA and Vietnam. These study tours have sometimes only lasted for a few days, sometimes for a summer term, and other times for an entire academic semester.

The Office of International Exchange Programs (IXO) can guide you through the policies and preparations. We have prepared this advising booklet to help you locate third-party providers who can help you to make arrangements on the ground in the host country. We have developed a standardized approval process (please visit www.aus.edu/info/200176/international_study_and_exchange/554/go_abroad/4), along with an iLearn-based system that allows chaperones and students to upload all the necessary documents.

We invite you to contact us in the Office of International Exchange Programs (Main Building, Ground Floor, MG50, ixo@aus.edu) to explore your options, and hope you will consider taking a group of students abroad!

Thank you, and best wishes,

Linda

Testimonial from a Faculty Member

This is my trip report form for Study Tour 118 to the Jessup International Rounds in Washington, DC, April 7-17, 2017. I led this study tour with Shahed Abdul-Dayem, Jamil Hassan and Hassan Salman as the UAE National Team in the competition. Three AUS students participated with granted permission from professors and guardians to miss classes and other university activities

The Jessup is a moot court competition founded at Harvard University and now sponsored by White & Case and the International Law Students Association. It has a history of more than 100 years with more than a thousand participants each year. Nearly 100 countries—including Afghanistan, Palestine and Iran—are represented by national teams. Our three students viewed the competition as a capstone of their undergraduate careers. The competition is also rewarding for the faculty coaches (and judges) because it affords so many interesting opportunities for research and networking.

The main participants of the Jessup are the students but participants also include coaches and judges drawn from the benches of the International Court of Justice and other international courts; arbitrators from the Iran-US Claims Tribunal; partners of the top law firms in the US, UK and Canada; attorneys of the US Department of Justice; staffers from the US Senate; and faculty from respected law schools and other departments from around the world.

A large number of competition, educational and networking events were scheduled between April 9 and 15 between the hours of 9 a.m. and sometimes past midnight at the Hyatt Regency and a few other locations in Washington, DC. From April 12-14, the Jessup overlapped with at the Annual Conference of the American Society of International Law (ASIL) at the Hyatt Regency. The team's written submissions to the competition scored #38 in the world, tied with the law school of Washington University in St. Louis, and narrowly beating that of the University College London. Our team performed well in oral competition rounds against teams from Brazil, Dominican Republic, India and Romania on April 10, 11 and 12. We attended semifinals and finals rounds on April 13, 14 and 15. Students attended events on pathways to careers in international law, discussions with authors of the competition materials, and receptions to introduce Jessup competitors to attendees to practicing lawyers, judges and law professors. They also attended ASIL panels and keynote addresses.

Three recent AUS alumni who now work in in law and politics in London, New York and Washington joined us. All had previously competed in the Jessup and traveled to the competition because they enjoyed it so much in years past. We were also joined by AUS Professor Kevin Gray, who was one of many judges at the competition.

Travel, accommodation and other essentials were covered and reimbursed by AUS, ensuring that the trip ran smoothly for students and faculty.

Testimonial from a Student Participant

From March 30 to April 7, 2017, a group of seven AUS Executive MBA students participated in the US Business & Culture Tour. The destination was Washington and then New York City. The primary focus of the AUS EMBA US Business & Culture Tour 2017 was to have our executives learn more about American culture and business practices. The participating students are all business leaders with experience and responsible positions in their respective industries.

During their stay, the group held meetings with business executives to learn about the challenges faced by their counterparts in America and to better understand the strategic perspectives of American business executives. The visits included renowned institutions that have local and international impact in their respective industries, such as the International Finance Corporation, IBM, AT&T, Douglas Elliman Real Estate, the United Nations Conference on Trade & Development (UNCTAD); a lecture at Georgetown University; and a dinner with officials from the UAE Consulate in New York. In addition to that, our executives had the pleasure of participating in many cultural and sightseeing events.

The emphasis of our EMBA program is on helping business leaders in the UAE develop a better sense of the impact of globalization and preparing them to lead enterprises that are able to compete internationally. We believe that developing an understanding of America and creating business connections in the USA will make an important contribution to their education.

Program Providers

Academic Experience Abroad (AEA)

Academic Experiences Abroad (AEA) is a full service, educational program provider specializing in customized, faculty-led programs. We have been operating since 2005 and have sent more than 2,500 students and faculty abroad on highly specialized, yet affordable, faculty-led programs lasting between seven days and three months. From Anime to Service Learning and Business to Language Immersion, with variety in between, we make sure your program is complete, safe and unique. We promise to give you excellent, personal service, and we will work hard to meet your expectations as well as your budget. (<http://www.aeastudyabroad.com/>)

ACCENT International

ACCENT International Consortium for Academic Programs Abroad is the number-one provider of custom-made study abroad programs to Europe. With more than 25 years of experience, we give colleges and universities innovative ideas for enhancing and expanding academic experiences overseas while delivering seamless logistical support. (<http://accentintl.com/>)

AGLOCAM

Through our faculty-led programs, students are involved in service learning experiences while being exposed to our local, national and regional culture. During your stay, AGLOCAM will introduce your group to various companies and projects in Costa Rica. Students will learn about businesses of all sizes, local and international projects and the different social and cultural realities of the world; helping students improve themselves professionally and intellectually is part of our core mission. All our short-term programs are customized to your academic goals, budget and interests; while we also ensure participants an enriching cultural awareness that only on-site visits offer. (<http://aglocam.com/our-programs/faculty-led-programs/>)

American Institute for Foreign Study (AIFS)

AIFS pioneered customized, faculty-led programs, which are formal arrangements between educational institutions and AIFS in which AIFS provides logistical support, student services, classrooms, housing facilities and cultural activities at a location abroad, plus student medical and fee refund insurance and over US $50 million of liability insurance for the US college/university. This enables institutions to conduct their own academic programs abroad at minimal expense. (<https://www.aifscustomized.com/>)

ARAMFO

The ARAMFO mission is to improve the relations and ties between countries and to create a new generation of ambassadors who represent their homelands in a safe academic setting. It is our goal that each student can speak freely about modern and historical issues on each of our trips so that students will be able to better evaluate the region and culture they visit. The major aim of ARAMFO is to help individuals increase their understanding and tolerance of other cultures, engaging in international interactions through an educational context, and broadening their social horizons. (<http://aramfo.org/>)

CEPA Europe

Our mission is to develop and deliver education abroad programs with strong academic and cultural components in close partnership with faculty leaders and administrators at colleges and universities. We create custom designed study abroad programs that are based on the learning objectives unique to each course to reach those goals. Through our expert knowledge of the destinations, close connections to local communities and cultures, as well as years of experience in university-level study abroad programming, we offer high-quality short and long-term programs. (<https://www.cepa-abroad.org/>)

CIS abroad

As more and more faculty leaders head overseas with student groups, the need for assistance on the ground increases. Faculty members have historically been responsible for not only teaching the course, but also overseeing program reservations, payments, on-site crises, logistical changes, risk management, and everything else that comes with these programs. As an education abroad organization, we recognize that putting all of these responsibilities on one person or one office directly affects the quality of the program. Since 2004, we have closely collaborated with study abroad offices and faculty leaders to deliver the highest program quality possible. How do we do this, and what makes us so successful? True customization: Every course is different, and in turn every program will be different. By customizing each aspect of the program, we provide faculty with an opportunity to create an itinerary that best meets the learning objectives of your course and directly aligns with your academic needs and expectations. (<https://www.cisabroad.com/custom-programs/faculty-led-programs/>)

Council on International Educational Exchange (CIEE)

At CIEE, we create opportunities that help bring people together. We foster the development of understanding and mutual respect between communities and nations by promoting the exchange of ideas and experiences. We help give students, teachers and young professionals from across the world skills that make them active and responsible global citizens. (<https://www.ciee.org/>)

Cultural Experience Abroad (CEA)

Since 1997, CEA has maintained one simple philosophy: to provide high-quality international academic programs and services. For you, that means support through each step of your study abroad experience, from the moment you apply to the day you return home again. Along the way, you'll learn to adapt and communicate across cultures. You'll earn credits toward graduation while gaining skills that enhance your employability. And you'll discover more about yourself than you ever thought possible. (<http://www.ceastudyabroad.com/>)

EdOdyssey

EdOdyssey creates the amazing custom faculty-led seminars around the world for university students. We work with undergraduate and graduate programs. We're international educators, not tour guide that work in select countries we know better than anyone else, which enables us to create a program inspired by your curriculum that enhances students learning and brings your content to life. Contact us to start planning today, learn how we work with faculty and universities, and allow us to create a free, proposal for you. (<https://www.edodyssey.com/>)

ESADE is a global academic institution known for the quality of its education, its international outlook and its clear focus on holistic personal development. With strong ties to the business world, ESADE stands out for its innovation and contribution to social transformation. People are ESADE's greatest asset: faculty, professionals, and more than 60,000 alumni all over the world. (<http://www.esade.edu/en/>)

Global Vision International (GVI) (rated 9\10 as of September 2016 by one reviewer)

Global Vision International (GVI) is multi-award winning social enterprise that runs high-impact volunteer and international education programs. For more than 15 years GVI has helped thousands of people make a real difference to the world they live in while also gaining the knowledge and skills necessary to live and work in a globally interdependent and culturally diverse world. (<http://www.gviworld.com/>)

INLEX/CA

We identify areas of need and projects that would benefit from the input of great individuals willing to give a little of their time to help others. Central America is a place where your time as a volunteer is much needed and appreciated. Our faculty-led trips are designed to meet the academic needs of teachers and the expectations of students alike. Taking the class outside of the classroom while keeping students happy, motivated and constantly learning throughout the whole process. All of this as requested by the faculty. (<http://www.inlexca.org/>)

Institute for the International Education of Students IES

IES Abroad creates a journey—an exhilarating challenge of academics and cultural immersion—an unmatched global educational experience. Our world-class faculty and demanding, relevant courses engage and inspire students as they discover unexpected ways of learning both inside and outside the classroom. (<https://www.iesabroad.org/>)

Institute of Global Engagement New Zealand

We put the 'edu' into tourism and bring edutourism experiences to international study group programs. We are the only dedicated educational study tour provider in New Zealand serving schools, colleges, universities and professional groups from around the world and across all themes and topics. We design and host short term programs in the South Pacific to enhance global and cultural engagement and understanding. Our unique and innovative approach combines learning with the ultimate tourism experiences. (<https://globalengagement.ac.nz/>)

International Studies Abroad (ISA) & Globalinks

With over 50 years of combined experience in international education, ISA and GlobalLinks Learning Abroad have joined together to provide the most extensive range of study abroad programs, custom program support, service-learning and internship programs, and full degree abroad options available through a single trusted partner.
