Bachelor of Science in Business Administration in Accounting

BE INDUSTRY READY.

AUS accounting alumnus Seri Kamal started his career with global accounting firm PwC as an intern through the School of Business Administration's student internship program.

With real-world business connections and experience, plus a solid foundation of knowledge and skills gained at AUS, Seri started working at PwC's Dubai branch after graduation. In this role, he provided auditing services for major regional clients such as Kuwait Food Company (Americana).

In order to meet industry demands, Seri was well prepared to achieve further industry qualifications, including the Certified Public Accountant (CPA) certification and International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRS) diploma. He also found that his minor studies in finance expanded his opportunities at PwC.

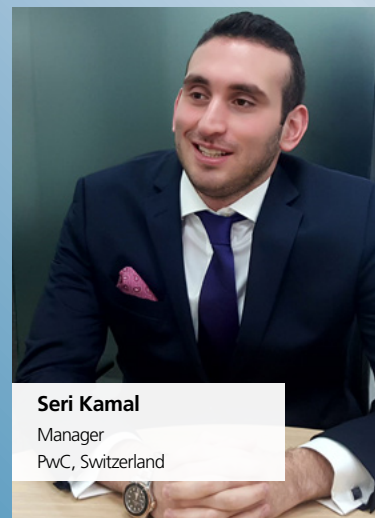

Now a manager at PwC in Switzerland, Seri oversees auditing and consolidation services for Phillip Morris International Inc., a publicly listed company in New York, and continues to enjoy a successful global career.

Become a #proud_AUSer like Seri.

Without a doubt, AUS set me up for success. From my professional internship as a student to the management position I hold with PwC today, I can confidently say that SBA gave me the best start to my career.

My AUS education helped me gain industry qualifications. This means I have been able to offer well-rounded service to clients in Dubai and Switzerland who follow different international accounting standards.
